DESCRIPTION OF MATERIAL

DATE OF EXPOSURE _____

The date of exposure of these photographs is unknown, but it can be presumed to be sometime during the early summer of 1954 or shortly before these submarines were turned over to the Peruvian Navy by the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Connecticut, the firm which built the ships. Five of the six photographs in each set show only the submarine "LOBO" but since the two ships are identical, corresponding shots of the "TIBURON" are not required. The aerial view of the two ships was taken from the highway bridge which crosses the Thames River in New London. The remaining shots were taken in the water immediately adjacent to New London.
